

HQIM Implementation Newsletter

Curriculum implementation made easier.

Welcome to the HQIM Implementation Newsletter!

Curriculum implementation can feel hard, overwhelming, and, at times, lonely for even the most experienced leaders. This newsletter is designed to change that. Throughout the year, we will walk alongside you, naming what strong curriculum implementation should look like at each point in the school year and offering clear, actionable guidance for how to get there. You can expect practical tools, timely reminders, and examples grounded in the real work of district leadership.

Our goal is simple: to support the day-to-day work of implementing high-quality instructional materials (HQIM) so that your investment translates into results.

Curriculum Implementation Is Change Management

Each month, we'll focus on a component of change management specific to curriculum implementation. Rivet Education has created a change-management flow adapted from the Knoster Model for Change to help leaders diagnose what's in place—and what's missing—in their curriculum implementation. Read more about it.

Now is the perfect moment to pause, reset, and make sure your system is aligned around a shared vision for instruction, one that includes the role of high-quality materials.

Curriculum Implementation Components

What happens when key elements are missing?

Get started with defining your vision:

- Read this blog post to see why an instructional vision is the foundation of successful curriculum implementation.
- Download our action plan with free resources to help you draft or refine your vision.